Roberto Reyes rcr2662

Ishan ivk87

Spring 2022

The workload for the project was separated evenly between the both of us. Roberto did some of the commands like quit, step, the exception handling, and more while Ishan handled createcritter, doEncounters, show world and more. We each used the sample tests to our own code as well as the code of our partners once fully integrated into the application. We shared our screen through zoom when testing each other's code and asked simple questions through text messages when we needed to.
